How we spend our time

A Adisa

As I play in my local football team, most of my time outside of school is spent either training or on the pitch. We're rather successful and play league games as well as tournaments, sometimes even in foreign countries. Fortunately, studying isn't hard for me, and I'm able to finish my homework and prepare for exams relatively quickly. Whenever I'm not playing, I'm on social media, which I find hard to resist. I always make plans to go out and meet people, but I just end up scrolling through posts anyway.

B Beren

I'm always busy, as I'm interested in so many different things. I love music and often spend time listening to it or playing my guitar. Recently I've discovered I really enjoy drawing and painting, so I've started doing more of that. And of course, there's all the schoolwork and studying for exams too, which is getting harder every year. I'd love to go abroad more as well, but that's just too expensive. I sometimes feel torn between all my different interests and am jealous of friends who know exactly where their interests lie and have become really good at doing one thing.

C Chris

The first thing you'd notice in my room is the wall of medals and trophies. I've been doing athletics for over ten years now and I'm still one of the best in my age group. I can't spend as much time training as I did when I was younger, because school takes up much more of my time now. I need to study a lot to pass the more demanding subjects. Additionally, I enjoy spending my free time on making social media content. I'm thrilled to have a large following, so I try to post entertaining videos several times each week. My biggest wish is to travel and see the world, that'll have to wait for now though.

D Dorian

I see myself as a very sporty and musical person. I used to play guitar a lot when I was younger, but I hardly ever do that now. At weekends, I enjoy going to concerts with others. If nothing's on, we just get together at each other's homes and spend the evening messing around there. I train in the gym three times a week and play tennis in our local club, but I don't go to any tournaments. I think I do OK with studying overall, but maths can be challenging at times. Sometimes my parents force me to stay home and revise for the next test.

E Emily

My life right now certainly is very unusual. My parents have taken a year off from work and taken me out of school to travel the world. We're currently on our way across South East Asia by train and I'm already looking forward to more time at sea. I love discovering all the different sights and meeting people from all over the world, but I miss my friends from school. While we keep in touch digitally, it's not the same as sitting together in my room and meeting in person. I'm supposed to keep up with my schoolwork and I'm trying my best, but I find it hard to stay motivated without my classmates.
